Good News

- Belle Stone will be on the Profile Series on the Discovery Channel on Friday, February 24th at 7:00 A.M.
- Culturally Relevant Pedagogy—Diane Stevens Robinson and Mary Beth Medford will present at a national convention in Denver. ODE visited and was impressed because CCS is the only system in the state that does CRP systemically.
- Anthony Mohammed, author of Transforming School Culture, will be in the district on the ODE waiver day.
- A new step team was formed at Timken this year. They came in second at a high school competition at Akron Firestone.
- Most area colleges are participating at Early College Academy's College Night.

Follow-up on intervention specialist access to gradebooks

High school principals are opposed to intervention specialists giving grades and desire that teachers should collaborate about grades. Teachers must be highly qualified in a subject in order to assign a grade.

Fred Dawson sent an email re: steps to follow if intervention specialists want to assign grades rather than monitor grades.

Universal guidelines re: collaboration and mutual grading will be developed by a subgroup of the Special Education Committee to be decided in April.

Professional development opportunities

Results of the staff survey were distributed. Staff who wish to present should complete Form B under the Staff Development forms and return them to Stacy Poole. People should be reminded that they may take workshops from other organizations or other schools and may apply them toward the 6.5 hours if they are approved.

CPEA will remind members that they may initiate Staff Development opportunities.
